Mario seemed shy in the beginning but slowly warmed up to me throughout the day. He was playing with his new toys as well as Peach. He ate normally and did pee & poop. He was also napping quite a bit. he drank water normally

Date: May 20 2025

Mario ate well & he peed & pooped. Today I noticed that he wasn't breathing what I thought was "normal". He had been running and playing so at first I thought it might be nothing. he drank water normally

Date: May 21 2025

I called Sunset Animal Hospital to schedule the Vet appointment for Peach & Mario. I noticed that Mario's breathing had stayed the same as yesterday. His breathing was short and rapid. It seemed like apart and towards the end of the day he began to pant with his mouth open and tongue out. He ate less compared to yesterday. He peed but he did not poop he did drink a bit of water

Date: May 22 2025

I became more worried now. Mario was eating less than the day before and still didn't poop all day. I tried to play with him but he didn't seem interested. he napped for most of the day and moved very little. he still had rapid breathing. I also tried to give him treats but he only ate one. he drank little water he did pee.

Mario had pooped the morning of the Vet app. It was very little. He drank very little water that morning but did not eat. Breathing was still short and rapid. He seemed calm on the drive to Sunset. I talked to the doctor/vet about my concerns. She told me "best" case scenario it was pneumonia or an infection in his lungs. this is what she thought it was at because the tests were negative. She came back and showed me the Xray then explained that Mario had a diaphragmic hernia and that it would require surgery soon. She told me to take Mario back to Broward Animal Shelter where he was adopted because they might offer the surgery at a cheaper price. I took him the same day to the

I said yes & signed a document saying that I would surrender Mario back to the shelter for surgery and planned to readopt him after. Ms. Kalymeras told me to ~~come~~ come back after 5pm but before 6pm that same day.

I came to the shelter 5:30 pm and was informed that Mario

Microchip Manufacturer Information:

The brand of microchip your pet has is MC DATAMARS

How do microchips work?

Microchips have a unique number. When a handheld scanner is moved over the animal's body the scanner can read the number on the microchip. The microchip company is then called and the number given to the operator. The operator is then able to look in their database for the pet's information. Most veterinary offices, shelters and humane society's now have scanners and use them on all animal's that come in their doors.

If your address or phone number changes, it is important that you update your contact information with us as well as Found Animals.

Your pet's microchip requires to be manually activated by visiting their website: <https://www.petlink.net>. It's best to contact the microchip company to verify that the correct information is on file.

If your address or phone number changes, it is important that you update your contact information with us as well as your pet's microchip company.

You can update your information with us by visiting our website at <https://webapps.broward.org/PetsLicense/PetUpdate.aspx>

While microchipping is a great way for you to protect your pet should they become lost, it is very important that your pet wear a collar, rabies license and identification tag at all times. Research has proven that visible ID tags with the owner's name and phone number

To whom it may concern:

This letter is regarding Mario, the 22-week-old, neutered male, Domestic shorthair kitten, owned by Charlene Nel. Mario presented on 5/24/2025 for evaluation after being adopted from Broward County Animal Care. The owner reported Mario had been having heavy breathing with no coughing, sneezing, vomiting or diarrhea and a normal appetite. Upon physical examination, Mario was found to be underweight with a BCS of 3/9 and he was mildly dehydrated (<5%). His pulse was 180 beats per minute, his respiration rate with 50 breaths per minute and his temperature was normal at 101.6 degrees. His mucous membranes were pale pink and tacky and his CRT was < 2s. The auscultation of his thorax revealed increased lung sounds in the entire lung field.

After the examination, differential diagnoses included congenital heart disease with pleural effusion, pneumonia, Feline Leukemia virus, chylothorax, anemia, or diaphragmatic hernia. Consequently, a complete blood count, FeLV/FIV test, and radiographs were performed. The results of the diagnostics showed that Mario had a diaphragmatic hernia with abdominal viscera clearly visual in the thoracic cavity. The remainder of the results were normal. The owner was notified of the diagnosis and surgical treatment and prognosis for diaphragmatic hernias were discussed with her. It was recommended to contact Broward County Animal Care to inform them of this condition as the kitten had been just recently adopted. The owner stated she was going to take Mario to the shelter as soon as possible. Subcutaneous fluids were administered to Mario to help with the dehydration and the patient was discharged.

Please contact me if you have any further questions or concerns regarding this matter.
