III. Chair Report- Maria Juarez Stouffer-

Reviewing the FY2025 Children's Services Strategic Plan and Impact Report. Discussion centered on current community needs, emerging service gaps, and alignment with existing funding priorities.

Results from focus groups (approximately 600 participants, representing diverse demographics) identified the top community priorities as follows: Mental Health, juvenile crime, and homelessness prevention and support.

Food insecurity was noted as a secondary but growing concern. The findings indicate strong community demand for accessible mental health programs and preventive interventions for youth.

The committee discussed the need to assess whether the rise in juvenile crime is perceived or data-supported. Data from the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) indicates juvenile crime remains an issue, primarily tied to family and social trauma.

Plans were made to invite the Office of Justice Services and the 'New Day' program to present on recidivism and diversion outcomes, with 90% of participating youth avoiding re-arrest.

Suggestions included expanding diversion programs, facilitating restitution through youth employment or community service, and improving coordination with the State Attorney's Office.

Recommendations included increased transitional housing, job support, and case management. The committee discussed the possibility of adopting a 'housing first' model and expanding life skills programs.

Food insecurity is a growing issue due to rising food costs and reduced funding. The 'Better Together' initiative, led by Broward Health and Memorial, was recognized as the leading collaborative body addressing this issue. The committee agreed on the need to streamline and centralize countywide food assistance coordination.

Committee members noted that many residents are unaware of available services. Traditional outreach methods such as fairs and flyers were found to be ineffective. Recommendations included leveraging local TV/radio, faith-based organizations, school partnerships, sports events, and social media for broader engagement.

Feedback was positive, and future sessions will continue under the department's new mission, vision, and values rebranding initiative

Year 1 of the Baker Act Alternative Pilot concluded across nine schools. Nine successful non-traumatic transports occurred (seven from Cross Creek, two from Whispering Pines).
